Orenco® Solutions

Defining sustainable solutions for nearly 30 years

Put Our Experience To Work For You

Orenco pioneered media filters in the 1970's, and we've been designing wastewater process equipment of all kinds since 1981.

Orenco's systems have been installed in virtually every state in North America and in countries all over the world. Between them, our engineers and scientists have more than 400 years of wastewater experience. Our projects, products, research, and drawings appear in countless publications.

AdvanTex Treatment Systems, a textile-based media filter, can easily be integrated into your existing sand filter or package plant to improve performance, increase capacity, or meet future permit limits. AdvanTex systems allow hydraulic loading rates that are five to ten times higher than those of recirculating sand filters, so they consume a fraction of the land.
